

আমার ভালো আমি! [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Blu Foundation | Class 1 | Ages 6–7 Version: 1.0 DRAFT | Date: June 2026 Language: Bengali (primary) [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION] | English (reference)

Curriculum Team Note: All Bengali text marked [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION] has been drafted in English and requires review and translation by the Blu Foundation Bengali language lead before printing. Transliterated Bengali names and common words (e.g., রাফি, মিতু, আদাব) are included as reference points for translators.

A Note to Our Students

তোমাদের জন্য একটি কথা [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Hello, dear friend!

Welcome to your very special book — Hello, Good Me!

This book is for YOU. Inside these pages, you will learn five wonderful things:

1. Magic Words — how to say "please" and "thank you" so people smile when they hear you
2. Saying Hello — how to greet your teachers, your family, and your friends the right way
3. Listening is Caring — how to be a good listener so everyone feels important
4. Clean Me, Happy Me — how to keep yourself clean and tidy every day
5. Sharing is Loving — how sharing makes YOU and your friends happy at the same time

You will meet two friends in this book: Rafi (রাফি) and Mitu (মিতু). They go to school just like you. Sometimes they make mistakes. But they always learn, and so will you!

Every chapter has a story, a song, and something fun to do. There is also something to try at home.

Are you ready? Let's begin!

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full child-friendly translation of the above, using simple vocabulary appropriate for ages 6–7]

A Note to Parents

প্রিয় অভিভাবক, [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — "Dear Parent/Guardian,"]

আপনার সন্তান এই বছর Blu Foundation-এর শিষ্টাচার কার্যক্রমে অংশগ্রহণ করছে। [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — "Your child is participating in Blu Foundation's etiquette programme this year."]

This textbook, Hello, Good Me!, is your child's Class 1 companion for the Blu Foundation Character and Etiquette Programme. Through five short chapters, your child will build the habits that form the foundation of good character: politeness, respect, listening, hygiene, and generosity.

The five topics your child will study this term are:

1. Magic Words — saying "please" and "thank you"
2. Saying Hello — greeting elders, teachers, and friends appropriately
3. Listening is Caring — giving full attention when others speak
4. Clean Me, Happy Me — daily hygiene and tidiness habits
5. Sharing is Loving — taking turns and sharing with others

How you can help at home:

Each chapter ends with a "Try It At Home" challenge and a Parent Corner message written especially for you. These are short, simple activities — a few minutes each day is enough. When children practise at home what they learn at school, the lessons become habits that last a lifetime.

Please look through this book with your child. Ask them to tell you the story from each chapter. Praise them when they use a magic word, greet the elders, or share their snack. Your encouragement is the greatest reward they can receive.

Thank you for being your child's first and most important teacher.

Blu Foundation Programme Team

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full translation of the above into Bengali, maintaining warm and respectful tone appropriate for Bangladeshi parents]

A Note to Teachers

This textbook supports the Blu Foundation Class 1 Character and Etiquette Programme. It is designed as a student-facing resource: a book children hold, read, draw in, and take home.

For full lesson plans, facilitator scripts, discussion guides, differentiation strategies, assessment rubrics, and printable resources, please refer to:

BLU_D10 — Class 1 Teacher Guide: "Hello, Good Me!" (Facilitator Edition)

Teaching approach used throughout this book:

Each chapter follows the same five-step structure, which mirrors the sequence used in BLU_D10:

Step	What happens
1. Story	Teacher reads aloud; children follow with pictures
2. Song / Rhyme	Class sings or chants together 2–3 times
3. Activity	Children draw, colour, or complete a task in their book
4. Reflection	Teacher-led discussion using the "Think About It" question
5. Home Challenge	Child explains the "Try It At Home" task to a parent/guardian

Programme schedule: This programme requires 2–3 dedicated class periods per week. Each chapter is designed to span one full week, with the story and song introduced early in the week, the activity completed mid-week, and the home challenge set by Friday.

Tone note: All stories, songs, and activities use a warm, gentle, encouraging tone. There is no shaming. When a character makes a mistake in a story, the narrative always shows a path to learning and improvement. Please maintain this tone in your facilitation.

Language: The primary language of instruction is Bengali. English words appear in parentheses or alongside Bengali text as reference for teachers and for building early English vocabulary.

Chapter 1: Magic Words — "Please" and "Thank You"

Virtue: Kindness | দয়া [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Learning Objective: By the end of this chapter, students will use "please" and "thank you" correctly in at least 3 daily situations (asking for something, receiving food, receiving help).

The Story: Rafi's Magic Words

রাফির জাদুর কথা [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

One morning, Rafi (রাফি) arrived at school with his favourite red pencil — but he had forgotten his ruler at home. He sat down next to his friend Mitu (মিতু), who had a brand-new yellow ruler on her desk.

Rafi looked at the ruler. He needed it right now. Without thinking, he reached across and grabbed it from Mitu's desk.

"Hey!" said Mitu. Her voice was quiet, but her eyes looked sad. She looked down at her empty desk and said nothing. But she didn't feel like smiling anymore.

Their teacher, Apa (আপা), had seen what happened. She came over softly and knelt beside Rafi.

"Rafi," she said gently, "how do we ask for something we need?"

Rafi felt his face go warm. He knew the answer. He looked at Mitu.

"Mitu," he said, "please may I borrow your ruler? I forgot mine at home."

Mitu's whole face changed. The little sad line went away and a big smile came instead.

"Of course!" she said, and she passed the ruler to him.

When Rafi was finished, he put the ruler back carefully on Mitu's desk.

"Thank you, Mitu," he said. "You are a very kind friend."

Mitu beamed. Apa beamed. And Rafi felt something warm and happy in his chest — the feeling that comes when you use your magic words.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full story translation, preserving all dialogue and character names]

Our Song: The Magic Words Song

জাদুর কথা'র গান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

(Sing to a simple, repeating melody — your teacher will teach you the tune!)

When I want something, I say "please," Polite and kind, I aim to please! When someone helps me, I say "thank you" too — Magic words make the whole world new!

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — Bengali version of the song, maintaining the rhyme scheme and singability for ages 6–7]

Key Words

গুরুত্বপূর্ণ শব্দ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

English	Bengali [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	What it means
Please	অনুগ্রহ করে	A polite word you say when you are asking for something
Thank you	ধন্যবাদ	A word you say to show someone that you are grateful for what they did
Kind	দয়ালু	Being gentle, helpful, and caring towards other people
Grateful	কৃতজ্ঞ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Feeling happy and thankful when someone does something nice for you

Activity: My Magic Words Picture

আমার ছবি আঁকা [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Draw a picture in the box below.

Show a time today — or a time you can remember — when YOU said "please" or "thank you."

[Note for illustrator: provide a large blank box with a decorative border — stars or flowers — sized for a young child's drawing. Below the box, add two lines for the child to write or dictate: "I said _____ when _____."]

Think About It

ভাবো একটু [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

When someone does something kind for you — and then they say "thank you" — how does it feel in your heart?

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Try It At Home

বাড়িতে চেষ্টা করো [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Today at every meal, use your magic words:

- Say "please" when you ask for food or water.
- Say "thank you" when someone passes it to you.

Tonight, tell one family member what you learned today about magic words!

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Teacher Notes (Brief)

- Use two hand puppets (or two volunteers) to re-enact the story before reading it. Children this age respond strongly to puppetry and peer modelling.
- Role-play the grabbing vs. asking scenarios — exaggerate the sad face when the ruler is grabbed and the joyful face when "please" is used. Let children react.
- Reinforce throughout the day: each time a student uses "please" or "thank you" unprompted, acknowledge it specifically and warmly ("I heard Fatima say please just now — that was beautifully done").
- See BLU_D10 Chapter 1 for: full lesson script, puppet dialogue, differentiation for non-verbal students, and a formative assessment checklist.

অভিভাবক কর্নার [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

This week your child is learning about magic words — "please" and "thank you."

At mealtimes, gently remind your child to say "please" when asking for food or water, and "thank you" when they receive it. When you use these words yourself, your child will hear them and copy you — that is the most powerful teaching of all.

If your child uses a magic word without being reminded, tell them: "I noticed that! That made me so happy."

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full Bengali translation of the Parent Corner, using simple and warm language]

Chapter 2: Saying Hello — Greetings for Everyone

Virtue: Respect | সম্মান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Learning Objective: By the end of this chapter, students will use appropriate greetings with elders, peers, and in different daily settings (home, school, mosque/community).

The Story: Mitu Learns to Say Hello

মিতু সালাম শেখে [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

One holiday, Mitu (মিতু) went with her mother to her grandmother's house in the village. Mitu was shy. When she walked through the door, she looked at her feet and said nothing. The aunties and uncles in the sitting room all smiled at her, but Mitu just hid behind her mother's sari.

Her grandmother — Nanu (নানু) — took Mitu gently by the hand and led her to the garden.

"Are you afraid?" Nanu asked.

"A little," Mitu said. "I don't know what to say."

Nanu smiled and sat down beside her. "A greeting is a gift," she said. "When you say Assalamu Alaikum — 'peace be upon you' — you are giving every person a gift of peace. Nobody is afraid to give a gift."

Mitu practiced the words softly. Assalamu Alaikum. Assalamu Alaikum.

Nanu also showed her how to say Adab (আদাব) — placing both hands together and bowing her head slightly — for elders of all faiths. "It means: I respect you," Nanu explained.

When they went back inside, Mitu stood at the door of the sitting room. She took a deep breath.

"Assalamu Alaikum," she said clearly, and she pressed her hands together in Adab for Dadu, the eldest uncle.

The whole room lit up. Everyone answered her greeting warmly. Mitu felt like a tiny sun had turned on inside her chest.

The next morning, she ran to the gate to greet every single person who arrived — neighbours, the vegetable seller, the little cousins — and each greeting felt better than the one before.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full story translation]

Our Song: The Greeting Song

সালামের গান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

(Sing together — clap on every beat!)

Assalamu Alaikum, peace to you! Adab to the elders, respectful and true! Hello to my friends with a wave and a smile — A greeting means: "You are worth my while!"

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — Bengali version, keeping the rhythm and clapping pattern]

Key Words

গুরুত্বপূর্ণ শব্দ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

English	Bengali [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	What it means
Assalamu Alaikum	আসসালামু আলাইকুম	An Islamic greeting meaning "Peace be upon you." The reply is Wa Alaikum Assalam — "And peace be upon you too."
Adab	আদাব	A respectful greeting gesture: hands pressed together, head bowed slightly. It shows honour and respect.
Elder	বড়	Someone who is older than you — a grandparent, parent, teacher, or older neighbour — who deserves extra respect
Respect	সম্মান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Treating someone as important and valuable

Activity: The People I Greet

যাদের আমি সালাম দিই [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Draw three people you greet every day.

For each person, write (or ask your teacher to help you write):

- 1. Who are they? (e.g., my teacher, my grandmother, my friend Karim)
- 2. What greeting do you use? (e.g., Assalamu Alaikum, Adab, "Good morning!")

[Note for illustrator: three portrait-shaped boxes in a row, each with two lines below for the child's writing]

Think About It

ভাবো একটু [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Think of a time when someone greeted you with a big warm smile.

How did it make you feel?

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Try It At Home

বাড়িতে চেষ্টা করো [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Tonight, greet every family member before you go to sleep. Tomorrow morning, greet every family member when you wake up.

Use the right greeting for each person. Can you greet them before they greet you?

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Teacher Notes (Brief)

- Physically demonstrate each greeting gesture at the front of the class — say the greeting, do the gesture, then ask students to copy you together.
- Practise in pairs: children take turns greeting each other as "elder" and "friend," switching roles each round.
- Note that Bangladesh has both Muslim and Hindu students in many classrooms. The lesson honours both Assalamu Alaikum (Muslim) and Adab / Namaskar (widely used respectful gestures). Teachers should adapt based on classroom composition and community norms.
- Greet every child by name at the classroom door for the remainder of this week to model the habit.
- See BLU_D10 Chapter 2 for: full lesson script, guidance on cultural sensitivity, role-play pairs activity, and formative assessment.

Parent Corner

Your child is learning proper greetings this week — including Assalamu Alaikum, Adab, and how to greet teachers and friends at school.

Please encourage your child to greet all family members and visitors at home with the appropriate greeting. If a visitor arrives, give your child the chance to greet them first. Praise them warmly when they do it without being reminded.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full Bengali translation of the Parent Corner]

Chapter 3: Listening is Caring

Virtue: Respect | সম্মান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Learning Objective: By the end of this chapter, students will sit still, make eye contact, and wait without interrupting when someone else is speaking.

The Story: Rafi Learns to Listen

রাফি শুনতে শেখে [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

One day, Apa (আপা) was telling the class a story about a clever rabbit and a slow tortoise. It was a very exciting story. But Rafi (রাফি) kept leaning over to his friend and whispering, "Do you know this story? I know how it ends! The tortoise wins!"

Apa paused. She looked at Rafi. She didn't shout. But the other children turned to look too, and Rafi felt uncomfortable.

After school, Rafi's grandfather — Dadu (দাদু) — was waiting at the gate. As they walked home, Rafi told him what happened.

Dadu listened to every single word. He didn't say anything until Rafi had completely finished.

"Did I interrupt you?" Dadu asked.

"No," said Rafi.

"How did that feel — knowing I was listening to every word?"

Rafi thought about it. "Good. Like what I was saying mattered."

"Exactly," said Dadu. "That is what you gave Apa the power to give the whole class. But when you whispered, you took that feeling away — not just from Apa, but from all your friends."

Rafi was quiet for a moment. Then he said, "Dadu, I want to be a good listener."

"Then I will teach you," said Dadu. "Eyes forward. Mouth closed. Wait for your turn. And when you listen well — your turn will come."

The next day, Apa began another story. Rafi sat straight. Eyes forward. Mouth quiet. He listened to every word.

When Apa asked at the end, "Who can tell me what the tortoise did?" — Rafi's hand shot up, and he knew every detail. Apa beamed.

"Rafi, will you lead today's activity?" she asked.

He walked to the front of the class, tall and proud.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full story translation]

Our Song: The Listening Song

গোনার গান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

(Chant together with a steady beat — pat your knees on each line!)

Eyes up front and mouth keep still, Listening carefully — yes I will! Wait my turn and then I'll speak — A good listener is what I seek!

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — Bengali version of the song]

Key Words

গুরুত্বপূর্ণ শব্দ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

English	Bengali [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	What it means
Listen	শোনা	To give your full attention to what someone is saying — with your eyes, your ears, and your quiet body
Interrupt	বাধা দেওয়া	To start talking while someone else is already speaking. This is impolite and makes the speaker feel unimportant
Patient	ধৈর্যশীল	Calmly waiting for your turn without rushing or becoming restless
Attention	মনোযোগ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Focusing your mind fully on one person or one thing

Activity: Good Listening or Bad Listening?

ভালো শোনা না খারাপ শোনা? [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Look at the four pictures below. Circle the ones showing good listening. Cross out the ones showing bad listening.

[Note for illustrator: draw four panels — Panel 1: A child sitting upright, looking at the teacher, hands folded on the desk — GOOD LISTENING Panel 2: A child looking out of the window while the teacher speaks — BAD LISTENING Panel 3: Two children whispering to each other while their classmate is talking — BAD LISTENING Panel 4: A child with hand raised, waiting quietly while another child finishes speaking — GOOD LISTENING Panels should be simple, clear, friendly line drawings appropriate for 6–7 year olds]

Think About It

ভাবো একটু [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Have you ever been speaking and felt like no one was listening?

How did it feel?

What do YOU do to show someone you are listening?

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Try It At Home

বাড়িতে চেষ্টা করো [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Tonight, ask one family member to tell you about their day.

Listen to their whole story without interrupting once.

When they are finished, tell them one thing you heard them say.

Tomorrow, tell your teacher what you heard!

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Teacher Notes (Brief)

- Introduce the "talking stick": a small decorated stick (or ruler, or rolled-up paper) that children pass around the circle. Only the child holding the talking stick may speak. Everyone else listens. This is a powerful, concrete tool for 6–7 year olds who need a physical cue.
- Model active listening visibly: when a child speaks to you, make exaggerated eye contact, nod, and wait for them to fully finish before responding. Name it afterwards: "Did you see what I did? I listened with my whole body."
- The reflection question ("Have you ever felt ignored?") may surface genuine emotions. Allow children to share without pressure.
- See BLU_D10 Chapter 3 for: full facilitation script, talking stick activity guide, circle time structure, and assessment rubric.

অভিভাবক কর্নার [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

This week your child is practising listening without interrupting.

Please give your child time each evening to tell you about their day. While they speak, model what good listening looks like: look at them, do not check your phone, do not finish their sentences. When they are done, ask one question about what they said.

This shows your child that their words matter — and teaches them, by example, how to listen to others.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full Bengali translation of the Parent Corner]

Chapter 4: Clean Me, Happy Me

Virtue: Discipline | শৃঙ্খলা [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Learning Objective: By the end of this chapter, students will name 4 daily hygiene habits and explain in their own words why each one matters.

The Story: Karim Finds His Shine

করিম তার ঝলক খোঁজে পায় [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Karim (করিম) always rushed in the morning. He woke up late, skipped washing his face, pulled on yesterday's uniform, and ran to school without eating properly. By the time he arrived, his hands had mud on them from the path, his hair was sticking up in every direction, and his collar was crumpled.

The other children moved their chairs slightly when Karim sat down. Nobody said anything mean, but Karim could feel something was not right. He sat alone, feeling small.

At breaktime, Mitu (মিতু) came and sat near him. She was kind, and she didn't move away.

"Karim," she said gently, "can I ask you something? Did you wash your hands today?"

Karim looked at his hands. There was dirt under his nails.

That afternoon, Karim told Dadu (দাদু) what had happened. Dadu listened carefully.

"Do you know," said Dadu, "that in our faith, cleanliness is half of faith? The Prophet, peace be upon him, taught us: 'Cleanliness is half of faith.' (Al-Tirmidhi) A clean body and a tidy appearance shows respect for yourself, for others, and for Allah."

Then Dadu helped Karim make a morning plan: wake up → wash face and hands → brush teeth → comb hair → wear a clean uniform → say Bismillah and go to school.

The next morning, Karim followed every step. When he arrived at school, Mitu looked up and smiled.

[Note for illustrator: design a left-to-right sequence of 6 boxes connected by arrows, with a simple caption under each box. Children draw themselves doing each action. Boxes: 1. Wake up and get out of bed 2. Wash face and hands 3. Brush teeth 4. Comb hair 5. Put on a clean uniform 6. Walk to school with a smile Each box should have a small icon prompt (a bed, a tap, a toothbrush, a comb, a shirt, a school building)]

Think About It

ভাবো একটু [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Why do you think clean hands are important before eating?

What happens if we eat with dirty hands?

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Try It At Home

বাড়িতে চেষ্টা করো [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Every morning this week, check these four things before you leave for school:

- ☐ Did I wash my face and hands?
- ☐ Did I brush my teeth?
- ☐ Is my hair combed?
- ☐ Am I wearing a clean uniform?

Put a tick each day you complete all four without being reminded. Show your chart to your teacher on Friday!

[Note for illustrator: design a simple 5-day tick chart (Mon–Fri) with these four rows, sized for a child to tick in their book]

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Teacher Notes (Brief)

- If possible, bring a small bottle of hand soap and a basin or bucket of water to class for a live handwashing demonstration. Show the correct technique: both hands, 20 seconds, fingertips and thumbs.
- Frame cleanliness explicitly within both Islamic values (Taharah — purity) and general health. For mixed-faith classrooms, the health framing is universal; the religious framing can be offered as additional meaning for Muslim students.
- The story is specifically written so that the child who needs to improve (Karim) is not shamed by peers but helped by a kind friend. Maintain this tone — the lesson is never about mocking anyone who lacks hygiene habits; often those habits depend on home circumstances outside the child's control.

- See BLU_D10 Chapter 4 for: handwashing demonstration guide, morning routine poster template, home-school communication tip for parents who may need support.

Parent Corner

অভিভাবক কর্নার [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

This week your child is building daily hygiene habits: washing hands, brushing teeth, combing hair, and wearing a clean uniform.

Please help by setting up a simple morning routine at home. Go through the same steps in the same order each day. When your child completes their routine without being reminded, praise them — or give a sticker, a star, or simply a big hug. Consistency over one week builds a habit that can last a lifetime.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full Bengali translation of the Parent Corner]

Chapter 5: Sharing is Loving

Virtue: Kindness | দয়া [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Learning Objective: By the end of this chapter, students will demonstrate taking turns and sharing in at least one classroom activity, and describe how sharing made them feel.

The Story: Mitu's Happiest Breaktime

মিতুর সবচেয়ে আনন্দের টিফিনের বিরতি [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

One Thursday, Mitu (মিতু) came to school with a big paper bag. Inside was a whole packet of chanachur (চানাচুর) — the spicy, crispy snack that all children love. Her mother had packed extra as a surprise.

At breaktime, Mitu sat under the banyan tree and opened her bag. The smell drifted out, and soon four of her classmates were looking her way — not asking, just noticing.

Mitu looked at the big bag and then at her friends. She thought: I could eat it all. It's mine. Nobody would blame me.

Then she remembered something Dadu (দাদু) had told her last week. She had asked him, "Dadu, what is the happiest feeling in the world?"

He had smiled and said: "The smile on your friend's face when you share something with them. That is a happiness you cannot eat or drink or buy. You can only find it by giving."

Mitu looked at the bag, and then at her friends, and then she made up her mind.

"Come!" she said. "Come and sit with me."

She opened the bag wide and passed it around. Each friend took a small handful. The bag went around the circle and came back to Mitu — still half full.

"Thank you, Mitu!" said Rafi. "You are the best friend."

"Thank you, Mitu!" said the others.

Mitu ate her chanachur slowly, looking at her friends' happy faces. The snack tasted just as good as always. But something else tasted even better: the warm, glowing feeling that filled her from head to toe.

It was the happiest breaktime she had ever had.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full story translation]

Our Song: The Sharing Song

ভাগ করার গান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

(Sing together — stretch your arms wide on "share"!)

When I share what I have with you, My heart grows bigger, warm and true! You smile at me, I smile at you —
Sharing is something love can do!

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — Bengali version of the song]

Key Words

গুরুত্বপূর্ণ শব্দ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

English	Bengali [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	What it means
Share	ভাগ করা	Giving some of what you have — food, a toy, your time, your help — so others can enjoy it too
Turn	পালা	Each person's fair chance to go next, to speak, or to use something
Generous	উদার	Feeling happy when you give to others, without waiting to be asked
Fair	ন্যায় [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Making sure everyone gets a fair and equal chance or portion

Activity: My Sharing Star

আমার ভাগ করার তারা [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Step 1: Colour in the big star below as brightly as you can. (A colourful star = a sharing heart!)

Step 2: Inside the star, write — or ask your teacher to write — one thing you can share at school today.

[Note for illustrator: a large five-pointed star outline, centred on the page, with generous space inside for a child's writing. Surround it with small decorative elements: small stars, hearts, flowers.]

Think About It

ভাবো একটু [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Think of a time when you shared something with someone.

How did it make the other person feel?

How did it make you feel inside?

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Try It At Home

বাড়িতে চেষ্টা করো [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

This week, share one thing at home each day. It does not have to be big. Ideas:

- Share your snack with a brother or sister
- Share a toy with a younger child
- Share your time — sit and listen to someone's story
- Help someone with a task without being asked

Tomorrow, tell your teacher what you shared and how it felt!

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Teacher Notes (Brief)

- Facilitate a class sharing circle this week: ask each child to bring one item from home that they are willing to share (a book, a small toy, a drawing). In the circle, each child passes their item to the child on their right. Discuss the feelings together afterwards.
- If children do not have items to bring, the circle works equally well with classroom resources: crayons, stickers, or cards made in class.

- Sharing can be a genuinely difficult concept for young children, particularly those from households with scarcity. Never pressure a child to share something if they are genuinely distressed. The discussion of feelings is as important as the act itself.
- See BLU_D10 Chapter 5 for: full lesson script, sharing circle facilitation guide, assessment tool, and extension activities for children who are ready.

Parent Corner

অভিভাবক কর্নার [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

Your child is learning the joy of sharing this week — with food, toys, time, and kindness.

Encourage your child to share one small thing at home each day. When they do, praise them specifically: "I saw you give your sister some of your orange. That was generous and beautiful." Specific praise helps children understand exactly what they did well.

Sharing is a habit of the heart. The more children practise it, the more natural — and joyful — it becomes.

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full Bengali translation of the Parent Corner]

My Good Manners Chart

আমার ভালো ব্যবহারের তালিকা [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

[Note for illustrator: design this page as a colourful, celebration-style weekly chart. Use large, friendly fonts and bright colours. Include a smiley face next to each row. Leave space for a parent or teacher signature at the bottom of each week. The chart should feel like a reward in itself — something children are proud to complete.]

Each evening, tick the box if you did it today!

My Good Manner	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri
I said please and thank you today	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
I greeted everyone I met	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
I listened without interrupting	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
I kept myself clean and tidy	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
I shared something today	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐

My total ticks this week: _____ out of 25

How did I do?

- 20–25 ticks: AMAZING! You are a Good Manners Champion! ★★★★★
- 13–19 ticks: GREAT effort! Keep going — you are getting better every day! ★★★
- 0–12 ticks: Good start! Next week, try one new habit each day. ★

Parent/Guardian signature: _____

[NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION — full Bengali translation of chart labels and scoring guide]

Glossary: All My New Words

আমার নতুন শব্দ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]

All the important words from every chapter, collected here for easy reference.

English	Bengali [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Simple English meaning
Please	অনুগ্রহ করে	A polite word you say when asking for something
Thank you	ধন্যবাদ	A word to show you are grateful for something someone did
Kind	দয়ালু	Being gentle, caring, and helpful to others
Grateful	কৃতজ্ঞ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Feeling happy and thankful when someone does something nice
Assalamu Alaikum	আসসালামু আলাইকুম	Islamic greeting: "Peace be upon you"
Adab	আদাব	A respectful greeting gesture: hands together, head bowed
Elder	বড়	Someone older than you who deserves extra respect
Respect	সম্মান [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Treating someone as important and valuable
Listen	শোনা	Giving full attention to what someone is saying
Interrupt	বাধা দেওয়া	Speaking while someone else is already speaking — impolite
Patient	ধৈর্যশীল	Calmly waiting for your turn without rushing
Attention	মনোযোগ [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Focusing your mind fully on one thing or person
Hygiene	পরিষ্কার-পরিচ্ছন্নতা	Keeping your body clean and healthy
Habit	অভ্যাস	Something you do regularly until it becomes automatic
Neatness	পরিপাটি	Keeping yourself and your space tidy
Routine	রুটিন [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	A set of actions done in the same order every day

Share	ভাগ করা	Giving some of what you have so others can enjoy it too
Turn	পালা	Each person's fair chance to go next
Generous	উদার	Feeling happy when you give to others
Fair	ন্যায় [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Making sure everyone gets an equal and fair chance
Discipline	শৃঙ্খলা [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION]	Doing what needs to be done, even when it is hard
Kindness	দয়া	Caring about others and acting to help them feel good

Source Notes

সূত্র তালিকা [FOR CURRICULUM TEAM USE ONLY — NOT FOR STUDENT PRINTING]

These source notes are for internal Blu Foundation curriculum review only. Do not reproduce in student-facing printed editions.

- Story-based pedagogy for ages 6–7 (narrative-first approach to values education): [SOURCE_ALT_03]
- Right-hand use in greetings, Adab gesture norms, and greeting etiquette in Bangladesh: [SOURCE_ALT_07], [SOURCE_ALT_08]
- Islamic cleanliness reference (Taharah; "Cleanliness is half of faith" — attributed to Al-Tirmidhi, Sunan al-Tirmidhi, Hadith 3517): [SOURCE_ALT_07]
- Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) foundations for early childhood education (ages 5–8): [SOURCE_GL_01], [SOURCE_GL_05]
- Bengali language review and translation: To be completed by Blu Foundation Bengali language lead prior to Version 1.0 FINAL

End of BLU_D05 — Class 1 Textbook: "Hello, Good Me!"

Version Control:

- v1.0 DRAFT (June 2026): First full draft. All content complete in English. Bengali translations marked [NEEDS BENGALI TRANSLATION] throughout.
- v1.1: Pending — Bengali translation complete
- v1.2: Pending — Illustrator brief delivered; placeholder art notes addressed
- v2.0 FINAL: Pending — Full review by Programme Lead and Bengali language lead; print-ready layout

